

MINISTERS REFUSE WOMEN'S REQUEST

N. J. Methodist Conference Rejects Vigorously Equal Voice Resolution

STUDY COURSE ATTACKED

Atlantic City, March 5.—The New Jersey annual Methodist Episcopal conference at today's session overhauled and defeated an amendment to the constitution granting laymen equal voice in the convention.

Four-year Fight Lost The lay amendment has been pending for four years, but it is believed, it finally rejected by today's action.

Linwood Miller, Linwood, and John L. Pitt, Searight, were admitted to full membership at the executive session this morning.

The new course of study adopted at the last general conference was characterized as "filled with Unitarianism, socialism and German philosophy."

The Wilmington resolution to be submitted to the general conference would clothe the bishops with greater power, including the right to call for a general conference.

Captain C. Oliver asked the ministers to urge enlistments from the ranks of their congregations. "The army today presents even more opportunities to the right young men than is offered by the successful in business life," he told the conference.

The conference elected John R. Mason, of Camden, secretary of the conference claimants fund, Alfred Wagg, superintendent of the Bridgeton district, M. E. Snyder, superintendent of the Trenton district, J. D. Bills, superintendent of the New Brunswick district, and Harold P. Sloan, of Red Bank, as delegates to the general conference.

Camden Man Role Victim Superintendent Alexander Corson, of the Camden district, was denied the honor as a result of a misunderstanding.

Superintendent Corson and his father, Pennington Corson, of Pleasantville, were both eligible for election of the same name that if there are two men of the same name, the ballot would not be counted unless there was a designation.

Tobacco, drugs, gambling, race-tracks, venereal diseases, a drive for uniform marriage and divorce laws are included in the enlarged program of the board of temperance and prohibition.

Extensive newspaper and magazine advertising, the distribution of tens of thousands of leaflets, and the use of news in the country-wide crusades. It is known that a bill which would sound the death knell to race-tracks is already awaiting the proper time for presentation at Washington.

President Wilson and Governor Edward I. Edwards were roundly cheered by Doctor Harick. The speaker accused President Wilson with holding a time prohibition for two years, and added that he would now put into the office of Secretary of state a man who is friendly to the brewing interests, a man whom he can manipulate.

Bergdoll Fights for Civil Trial

Continued From Page One of her son's plight after she had posed for a photographer in a room in the Federal Building. She sat stolidly while camera men prepared two flashlights. She yielded obediently when one photographer grasped her arm and moved her chair a few inches.

In the corridor Mrs. Bergdoll talked briefly of Bergdoll's case. "Did you agree to pay Herman Davis, the Bureau agent, $10,000 for a month to protect Grover and Edwin?" she was asked.

"Ridiculous," she replied with a contemptuous laugh. "My son had $10,000 a month. It makes me laugh."

"Davis came to me after he had been discharged by the Burns agency. He asked me to take care of him because he had lost his job."

"I told Davis that if he was no good to his agency he would be no good to me."

Denies Paying $750,000 for Cruiser The slacker's mother laughed heartily at the report she had paid $750,000 for a cruiser. "The figure is $75,000," she asserted.

"That also is ridiculous," she asserted. After Mrs. Bergdoll left the court room she kissed her son and said: "But the busky soldier guards would not consent and hustled the slacker out of the building."

Her parting embrace crushed a $5 bunch of violets she wore. She plucked nervously at the flowers after her son had marched to a federal building elevator.

D. Clarence Gibbons, one of the

MRS. FRED A. BRITTEN, Wife of Congressman Britten, of Illinois, who is one of Washington's most extensive entertainers

slacker's attorneys, asserted here today that Mrs. Bergdoll is one of the worst persecuted women in America.

Weinberger announced that if the writ judgment is against Bergdoll, he will appeal immediately to the United States Supreme Court.

This action is directly against the agreement entered into for the defense yesterday when Captain Bruce R. Campbell, Bergdoll's military counsel, before the court-martial was held over, agreed that the prosecution would go on with the court-martial if the delay was granted, and would not appeal if the judgment by Judge Hand was adverse.

Some of the witnesses in court today were released until Monday; others were held for appearance this afternoon and for the court-martial tomorrow.

Goes in Taxi After Ferry Trip Bergdoll left Governors Island in custody of two guards on the ferryboat General Hancock. He was taken to the old postoffice building immediately. Two armed guards in whose custody Grover had been placed, hustled him into a taxi for the short trip.

Bergdoll was confined in the cellroom until the convening of court. His guards watched him at all times.

The revolver, which they carried slung to their hips, were held at all times. The guards, two determined-looking individuals, were all "let up" over their responsibility. They discussed the case, which they were ordered to "keep their mouths shut." They obeyed orders.

Mrs. Bergdoll arrived at the building courtroom on the second floor. She wore a black dress and a black straw hat trimmed with white flowers. She also wore a seakink cloak trimmed with ermine and carried an ermine muff.

Guards Watch Draft Dodger Mrs. Bergdoll and Weinberger were joined in the court room by Gibbons and Captain Campbell.

Mrs. Bergdoll took a seat beside her son on the front row. The draft dodger was visible through the draft dodger's eyes of the two guards, who occupied seats in the row directly behind the Bergdolls. He nervously fingered a slip of paper he took from his pocket, finally turning it into small pieces and scattering it about the floor.

The prisoner was dressed in the same dark suit he wore at the court-martial yesterday. He wore a high white collar which apparently hurt his neck. Several times he ran his finger nervously around the inside of the collar to relieve his neck. Then he loosened the multi-colored, knitted necktie he wore.

Mrs. Bergdoll laughed several times as that which she saw. She directed his attention to the brief of the case compiled by Weinberger, a copy of which had been given to her. Bergdoll had seen it before while waiting to be taken to the courtroom, but again scanned it with interest at his mother's direction.

"The brains of the Bergdoll family," was the manner in which an interested witness described her.

"A pretty good job," was another back-handed compliment thrown her way. Several times Mrs. Bergdoll directed helpful looks at witnesses for the prosecution who recognized her.

Colonel Freeman, Colonel Caffey and others associated in the prosecution also came in for their share of sharp looks that were anything but friendly and complimentary.

G. O. P. RANKS SPLIT IN TREATY BATTLE

Mild Reservationists Desert Lodge and Sustain Conference Reservation

FIGHT SHIFTS TO ARTICLE X

By the Associated Press Washington, March 5.—Efforts were being made today to take stock of the Senate peace treaty situation on the basis of the Walsh reservation adopted yesterday after a sharp political tilt.

As adopted the Walsh reservation reforms with agreement reached at the recent bipartisan conference. Individual senators declared that adoption of the resolution did not indicate a change in sentiment.

Senator Kellogg, Republican, Minnesota, one of the mild reservationists, declared that he could not follow the leadership of Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, in his decision to have nothing more to do with the compromise agreements tentatively reached in the bipartisan conference.

The Senate today had before it the reservation dealing with the activities of the reparation commission in so far as it related to secret trade between the United States and Germany. The reservation follows:

"The United States understands that the reparation commission will not interfere with exports from the United States to Germany or from Germany to the United States only when they are necessary for the reparation of the United States."

OPPOSES SHANTUNG ACTION BY LEAGUE London, March 5.—(By A. P.)—Discussing the address made in New York by Kijuro Shidehara, Japanese ambassador to the United States, the London Times declares the speech "appears to have contained unnecessarily emphatic references to China," and would have the league used as a pretext to postpone settlement of the Shantung problem.

"There is a very general desire in China that the Shantung issue be placed before the League of Nations," it says the newspaper.

It is too soon to place the responsibility for the Shantung issue upon the League of Nations and there should be no difficulty in reaching a more direct solution.

The critical condition of both nations, Great Britain and Japan, makes an early solution almost imperative. This is one reason why the proposed appeal to the League of Nations should not be pressed by China, as the League is too busy to deal with the problem except after interminable delay, and the Shantung difficulty does not admit of prolonged postponement.

Mr. Bergdoll was confined in the cellroom until the convening of court. His guards watched him at all times.

TOWNSEND FUNERAL TODAY

First City Troop Will Pay Tribute to Dead Member The First City Troop, in a body, will attend the funeral of Palmer Townsend, this afternoon, in the Church of St. Asaph, at Bala. Mr. Townsend died on Wednesday in the University Hospital as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident in Fairmount Park last Sunday.

Mr. Townsend, who was twenty-two years old, was the son of Joseph B. Townsend, a prominent lawyer living in Overbrook. He enlisted in the City Troop in April, 1917, and went to Camp Hancock with that organization. He was made a sergeant soon after his arrival in France in May, 1918, and served throughout the war with headquarters, Twenty-eighth Division.

New Priest for Camden Parish The Rev. Dr. William J. Fitzgerald, of Princeton, will be the pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Camden. It was announced today by Bishop Thomas J. Walsh, of the Catholic diocese of Trenton. Doctor Fitzgerald will succeed the late Dr. Bernard Mulligan as pastor and also as dean of the Camden district.

MOORE ATTACKS REALTY SHARKS

Speculators Should Be Punished, He Tells Representatives of Tenants' Ass'n

PLAN FOR PUBLIC HEARING

Real estate speculators—those responsible for the misery and suffering of several thousand residents of this city—should be punished, Mayor Moore declared today.

He said this at a conference with representatives of the Tenants' Protective Association at City Hall and suggested that those present get in touch with candidates for the Legislature of the various districts and learn how they stand on the housing problem. He will discuss the situation with the city solicitor.

Tentative plans were considered for a public hearing at which the question could be threshed out from all angles and definite action be decided upon.

The object of the conference was to obtain the Mayor's aid in alleviating conditions due to the present housing situation.

M. H. Biez, president of the tenants' organization, asked the Mayor to use his influence with the sheriff and judges that they may not humiliate when many thousands of leases for homes expire April 1.

Hundreds of families walking the streets and their furniture piled on the sidewalks was said to be inevitable unless some definite action were taken.

"For the last year," Mr. Biez continued, "hundreds of women of this city have endured insults and threats from constables and many have been driven to their death through the constant torment resulting from wild real estate speculation."

"It was pointed out to the Mayor that most of these speculators are from other cities, and came here to the 'City of Homes,' where they found ample opportunity to trade on the misery of the suffering people."

"I have no sympathy for the profiteer," declared Mayor Moore. "Whether he deals in houses or food, I am in sympathy with the tenants and will be glad to help them in any way possible. I think, however, that the real remedy is to be found in the city building houses for the people at a reasonable price by forming a building corporation."

The Mayor said he doubted whether the city had the power to do this, but added he would do everything possible to lessen the misery. Incidentally, he said that he himself would not buy a house in view of the present prices.

Mr. Biez cited the fact that $1,000,000 had been raised by the people for the relief of the city's housing problem. He thought that much more than that amount might be raised for the more vital need of homes.

After giving various suggestions which he declared would remedy the situation, the Mayor expressed the belief that a larger meeting, which might also be attended by the real estate men, would afford an opportunity to remedy the situation.

CLASS OF 1895 TO MEET

Hundred Alumni of Central High to Hold Twenty-fifth Reunion The Class of 1895, Central High School, holds its twenty-fifth annual reunion tonight at the Manufacturers' Club.

More than a hundred members of the class have arranged to attend the reunion. Mayor Moore and Edward James Cattell, city statistician, are the only persons not members of the class who will be present at the reunion.

The class has made a remarkable showing in all the professions, as evidenced by a long roster of notable names prepared by the class officers. John A. Haney, professor at Central High School, is class president, while John W. Frazier, Jr., a prominent member of the class, Major Edwin E. Chubb, who served in the war, three lieutenant colonels and two majors being among them. One member of the class, Major Edwin E. Hollenback, president of the Builders' Exchange in this city in civil life, was awarded an American citation and the French Croix de Guerre.

CAPTAIN GEORGE W. TEMPEST Appointed today to the position of assistant superintendent of police by Director Cortelyou

TEMPEST IN POLICE POST

"Will Co-operate in Every Way," Says New Superintendent Captain George R. Tempest today assumed his new post of acting superintendent of police.

"I am here with both feet," Captain Tempest said. "I will co-operate in every way with Superintendent of Police Mills and will carry out the wishes of Mayor Moore and Director Cortelyou."

Then he buried himself in a desk full of work that has been piling up since the resignation of Superintendent Robinson.

Director Cortelyou said that he had not made an appointment to fill the vacancy left by Captain Tempest's promotion. He indicated that the name of the man may be announced today.

Lieutenant William Leary, who is in charge of the superintendent's office at night, it is reported, will be Tempest's successor in the position.

Both Captain Tempest and Lieutenant Leary are Girard College graduates.

GIRL TALKERS CLEARED

School Head Reinstates Female Weakness—Reinforces Five Superintendent of Schools Burns, of Gloucester, today decided it was hard for girls to keep from talking and reinstated five students of the Gloucester High School, suspended yesterday for an infraction of a new ruling.

The order, which is considered unnecessarily radical by the student body, prohibits students from talking to each other from the time they enter the school building until they leave. The girls suspended yesterday were caught talking in the corridors as they were passing from one classroom to another.

Mothers of the suspended girls conferred with Superintendent Burns last night and obtained executive clemency for their daughters.

"However, the rule stands," declared Mr. Burns.

SAYS CHURCHES ARE 'TOO RESPECTABLE'

Rev. Bernard Iddings Bell, in Lenten Talk, Asserts Hold on People Has Been Lost

OTHER NOON ADDRESSES

To much "respectability" has caused the churches of America to lose their hold upon the people, said the Rev. Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, president of St. Stephen's College, Annabald, N. Y., in his address today at the noon Lenten services in the City Theatre under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

"Some of the churches have become so 'respectable' that if the Savior, Jesus Christ, went to one of them with his old mother at his side, wearing a shawl over her head, he would be told to go around to the chapel."

Something Wrong With the Church "I want to talk to you about the church today. There is something the matter with it. There is no doubt that the church has lost its hold upon the people. I have read, and I believe it is true, that there are 25,000,000 persons who should be in Sunday schools in this country, but are not."

"A great part of the young manhood of America has no connection with the church whatever."

"In the past this was not the fault of the church. We were going through a period of material development and the people became materialists. Had the Angel Gabriel and the twelve apostles appeared in some places I don't think they would have received a hearing."

"If the people listened to a preacher, he was one who broke chairs and performed antics."

"But it will be the fault of the church if it does not regain its hold on the people."

Not Satisfied With Old Ways "The people are no longer materialists. They are no longer satisfied with old ways. They are eager for the word of religion."

He then said that the trouble with the church was that it had drifted from the teachings of Christ. It was proud when it should be humble and humble when it should be proud.

"As an example of the wrong sort of members that it was the church that brought about prohibition."

"This boast is often made," said Doctor Bell, "but it is not true. Economic reasons brought prohibition to America."

"Business men found that prohibition paid. This was found by the churches and the W. C. T. U. had labored for many years without success."

"The church was humble when it should be proud, he said, in applying the teachings of Christ. He thought that too much attention was given to outward show. He believed that many ministers became 'mushy minded and mushy-soled' men. He thought that all ministers should earn their bread by labor, 'by the sweat of their brow.'"

Orchestra Board Ends Wage Tangle Continued From Page One to give more concerts. I understand that the Detroit and several other orchestras give their men forty weeks work, including the regular subscription concerts and a series of open-air concerts after the season ends.

It was suggested that open-air concerts might be found desirable and feasible in this city.

"I am in favor of the plan," said Mr. Judson, but where are you going to find a site?"

"Also," asked Alexander Van Rensselaer, president of the orchestra association, who was present, "where are

WINSTON CUT FINES TO GIVE 'FAIR DEAL'

Reductions Made Where Contractors Showed Effort to Comply With Agreements

HEPBURN AWAITS WORD

Director Winston, of the Department of Public Works, in a statement issued this afternoon, indicated that his purpose in reducing the fines imposed on street cleaning contractors for delinquency of duty in February, was to give the contractors a square deal.

Mr. Winston reviewed the question at length and said, in substance, that the penalties were cut where it was shown that the contractors made an honest effort to comply with their agreements under the abnormal weather conditions.

The director divided the alleged negligence of contractors into two classes. First, work that was not done at all; and second, work that was delayed. Circumstances in the latter classification were taken into consideration.

The penalties, originally amounting to $38,000, were imposed by Mr. Hephburn before he retired as chief of the bureau and they were cut to $20,000 by Mr. Winston.

Mr. Hephburn is now with the State Highway Department. Asked today in Harrisburg if there were justification for a reduction in the fines, Mr. Hephburn replied: "I have nothing to say—that is, just now I may have something to say when I hear the explanations offered by Mr. Winston. I will wait."

The contractors' protests occupied most of Director Winston's time from 2 o'clock until 6 yesterday afternoon. Senator Edwin H. Vore, accompanied by Archer M. Sobey, his general manager, and James Devine, his superintendent in the Third district, waited in the director's outer office for more than an hour.

It is reported Senator Vore was originally fined $13,000, but that the penalty was reduced to $6,000.

BURNS FATAL TO WOMAN

Mrs. Lillian Krumm's Dress Caught Fire From Heater Mrs. Lillian Krumm, thirty-five years old, of 3314 North Thirteenth street, died in the Jewish Hospital last night from burns received when her dress caught fire from a heater at her home yesterday. Christian Krumm, the woman's husband, had recently purchased a new home in Logan, to which they were preparing to move. While packing up the household effects, Mrs. Krumm's clothing caught fire. She was a teacher in the teachers' training school of the Tioga Baptist Church.
